The Republicans propose that the liquor traffic shall help pay the expenses it creates. This has the merit of being a possibility.

Our Prohibition neighbors should get up out of the rut and take a look at things. Then they would be wiser and would take broader views of things.

The temperance legislation in the Southern States has all been brought about without a third party. That is what the Republicans propose to allow the people of Ohio to do. It also has the merit of being a possibility.

General Dent has information from the Grant family that the ulceration of the throat has begun to inflame the jugular veins. It is strange that there is nothing in medical science to arrest mere ulceration. Medical genius seems to be taking a vacation.

The Republican party, when last in power in this State, submitted the Second Amendment to the people. The amendment was lost and the Republicans were defeated. Had the temperance voters remained with the Republicans the question would have been resubmitted and carried.

If there is to be any real pleasure to the crowd in this city on the 4th of July, measures should be taken to prohibit the explosion of fire-crackers on the streets or among the crowd. Those who must indulge in such annoyances should be made to go where there can be no danger to other people.

The Republicans have the courage of their convictions sufficiently strong in Ohio to lead the political battle of the State. The Republican party never waver in cowardly fear for the challenge of her opponents, she takes the field bravely. The Democrats are waiting for their Prohibition ally.

The return of the British Board of Trade for the month of May shows that the depression in the foreign trade of Great Britain is increasing. The value of both imports and exports shows a very considerable decrease, reaching $35,000,000 for the former and over $51,000,000 for the latter during the first five months of the year.

The inter-State Commerce Committee reports the gloomiest outlook for the railroad interests in this country. Mr. Chas. Francis Adams, Jr., says that if competition continues in such intense rivalry nearly all the old corporations will be in the hands of the receiver, and from them a big corporation would arise stronger than any similar institution in this country.

The Democrats are in power in this State because they defeated the Republicans on temperance issues. Yet the Democrats are praised and fondled by temperance speakers; their vilest legislation apologized for or overlooked, while Republicans are severely abused, and if the Republican papers call attention to the aspirancy of the Democrats, there is an immediate cry of vilification.

AN ECCENTRIC SAINT.

The GLOBE-REPUBLIC has treated Mr. John P. St. John fairly and squarely—and has dealt out justice to him—nothing more—noting less. What we could not prove against him we withdrew promptly and fully. We have conceded that he was an honest man and that he was acting conscientiously. But what shall we say of a man who assumes to be a leader of the people, who says, as the Prohibition organ—"The Daily New Era"—declares St. John said, Wednesday evening—namely—that "All the talk about there being no free ballot in the South is false!" What's the matter with St. John? Does he lack intelligence? He ought to know better and, as he has been in public life for many years, he must know better. There was not a person of ordinary information among those who listened to this utterance, who did not know that it was absolutely and grossly false. It is not denied by leading Southern men that "there is no free ballot in the South." Not only is this a historical fact, known and read of all men, but we have personal knowledge of admissions, or rather of volunteered and open statements of leading Southern men, to the effect that they do not allow and do not intend to allow black men to vote unless they vote the Democratic ticket! If John P. St. John does not know this, he is a political ignoramus! If he does know this, then he has stated a falsehood and knew what he was stating was untrue, and maliciously untrue! That is to say, if he took time to think what he was saying. We respectfully invite him to look into a mirror and apply to himself the proper epithet! Real saints do not do this sort of thing—in their right minds—and this supposed instructor in morals has destroyed the force of every utterance he has made by this extraordinarily false and foolish assertion. Why was not Meade allowed, by President Cleveland, a Democrat, to take possession of the Hazelhurst, Miss., postoffice? Because he publicly expressed his approval of the murder of Print Matthews for voting the Republican ticket. Mr. Cleveland knows there is no free ballot in Mississippi! Southern men know and admit that there is none in several of the other States—if not in all of them. This is certainly true of St. John—that if he has not intended to falsify, he has been careless and reckless in his utterances; that he has not weighed his words; that having narrowed his ideas into one well-worn rut and having become hot-headed and loose-mouthed he has got into the way of making the most extravagant and false statements without really appreciating the bearing and force of his language. This is probably what is true in his case. It is the most charitable thing we can say of him. If true, St. John is disqualified for the position of a moral or political instructor or leader and is at best but a saint out of gear, wobbling along, striking out right and left, and doing his own cause more harm than good.

BRITISH FREE TRADE.

Our English neighbors make a great flourish over their free trade "principles," but their practice is much inferior to their precepts, and their pretenses are exceedingly thin. Products or goods are admitted free to English ports in all cases in which British interests are likely to be promoted thereby, and in no other. But when it is to the interest of England to fix a charge on importations an "import tax" is put upon the article admitted. While a tariff (when established by America) is a very wicked thing, this very "tariff" by another name—an "import tax"—translated to English ground, has a most delicious fragrance.

We learn from the American Exporter, of New York, that Great Britain has collected, in taxes upon importations, no less than $140,000,000 during the past year, and the only excuse the government gives for this wicked proceeding is that the taxation is fixed for purposes of revenue and not for protection!

But let us look into this matter. England has fixed a tariff, or tax, of two pence (four cents) a pound on coffee, and a six-pence (or twelve cents) a pound on tea, a good proportion of which comes out of the pockets of workmen. Cocoa, chocolate, chicory and soups are also taxed or "tariffed." People who didn't know any better might infer that this raw material for harmless and non-intoxicating beverages was taxed for the protection of Bass's and Alesop's ale and English beer, and might therefore begin to suspect that the high morality of English free trade was an article that wouldn't wash! Especially so when foreign beer is also made to pay a tax. England also fixes a tariff of 84 cents to $1.32 a pound on American and other foreign tobacco.

Now where is the propriety or sense in John Bright and other Englishmen lecturing the American people on the wickedness of our tariff, and in putting on airs over us, on account of British bogus free trade principles and practice.

The Conservatives on Saturday outlined their policy in regard to Ireland and astonished the Opposition by promising home-rule or the Emerald Isle. This, together with the hope that the new government will hasten to restore England to her former position, which is the common cry—will insure the Conservatives a victory in the coming elections.

OHIO PROHIBITIONISTS.

SECOND DAY'S PROCEEDINGS IN THE STATE CONVENTION.

St. John Addresses a Mass Meeting in the Wigwag Last Evening, and Others an "Overflow" in Black's Opera House.—The Convention Meets for Business at Ten O'Clock This Morning—Permanent Organization and Reports of Committees.—The Platform, Plank by Plank.—Republicans, as Usual, Come in for the Lion's Share of Criticism and Abuse.—The Full Proceedings Up to the Hour of Going to Press This Afternoon.

There were a number of additional arrivals for the Prohibition State Convention last evening, and still others this morning, swelling the numbers from abroad to upward of one thousand, probably. Some of the counties, almost exclusively in Democratic territory, are reported not represented, or were so last night, and at some of the District meetings yesterday afternoon not over six or eight delegates were present, the First and Second joining forces in appointment of committees. In other cases, as the Fifth District, for instance, the attendance was quite large, of the brethren and sisters also; from 25 to 50 perhaps. In the last mentioned meeting, in fact, a great part of the allotted hour was spent in trying to make the tickets and badges furnished, "go around," a committee of five being dispatched to headquarters to procure an additional supply, after which the real business for which the caucus was held being transacted in about two minutes.

The number of delegates who use that noxious and soul-destroying weed, tobacco, in some, or several forms is noticeable, the cigar stands drawing a good trade from this source. It is the testimony of medical men that nothing creates the thirst for strong drink more than "the weed," and here surely is room for reform right among the professional reformers.

The interest centered last evening in the mass meetings, to which admission was public and without tickets. There was a very large attendance of the ladies, as well as regular delegates, and enough people were unable to gain admission at the Wigwag to hear Mr. St. John, earn his $100 and expenses in the cause of reform, to form a very respectable overflow meeting in Black's Opera House, both of which are fully reported elsewhere.

The report of regular proceedings of the Convention is taken up where yesterday's GLOBE-REPUBLIC left it.

Wednesday Afternoon Session.

When our report closed yesterday afternoon, Dr. Leonard was still in the midst of his effort. The little touch about the woe of Mrs. W. C. T. U. by Mr. Prohibition Party, brought down the majority of his audience (as it did, the ladies) in hearty rounds of applause. In the enthusiasm of the moment the Doctor offered three cheers for the wedding, and while they were being given, Mother Stewart gave a touch of realism to the simile by taking her position at the Doctor's side at the front of the stage and waving her handkerchief vociferously. After the applause following the speech had died out the chairman took occasion to give the Prohibition campaign song book a free ad. from the platform.

A delegate from the Teuth District new arose and moved that the delegates elected by the W. C. T. U. be admitted as members of the convention, and his motion was carried by acclamation. Prof. Frost, of Oberlin, then stated that a Prohibition convention was now in session in Mississippi, and moved that a committee be appointed to send greetings. It was carried, and Messrs. W. C. Frost, of Lorain; Odell, of Cuyahoga, and Higley, of Youngstown, were appointed to draft the dispatch. The convention was then entertained by "Marching Through Georgia" from the band. The chair now announced that the temporary organization would be completed, and asked for nominations. Mrs. Mary A. Woodbridge was elected First Secretary, and Mr. E. B. Lewis Second Secretary, both by acclamation. After announcing the "overflow" meeting at Black's for the evening, and the W. C. T. U. meeting at Central Street Church this morning, the Chairman asked for further nominations. As there were no more nominations to be made, he was about to ask for an adjournment when some one suggested that it might be well to give the district committees a chance to report. The chairman then began to call for the report of the committees on credentials, etc., but was told that they had not yet met. Evidently he had never before attended a State convention for he got "rattled" at once and couldn't understand why any committees should report at all. Two or three arose in different parts of the house and began to tell what they thought was the proper method of procedure, and as they all talked at once, they only deepened the confusion. Finally a motion was gotten through that the blacks containing the results of the district meetings be passed in to the Secretary. Professor Frost now thought all was moving smoothly and moved that the committees meet at their respective headquarters immediately at the close of the session. It was carried, and then a most amusing dialogue ensued between the chairman and a long-haired delegate from Wayback, who arose to ask "What's the use of having these committees meet?" "To transact their business," replied Dr. Leonard, in an uncertain fashion. "But it's all done," retorted the statesman from the woods. This was a stunner, and the Doctor was flustered, until suddenly a brilliant thought struck him, and he answered, "Meet slybow, and by orders." Prof. Frost came to the rescue and explained the case, after which the districts were called and the committees announced as reported in yesterday's GLOBE-REPUBLIC, a copy of which, on the chairman's table, would have saved all this trouble. After this business was done, the convention adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

Meeting of the Central Committee.

The State Central Committee met at the Arcade parlors at 8:30 this morning, with Jay Odell, chairman of the Executive Committee, presiding. The first business was to listen to a rambling verbal report from Brother D. W. Gaze, of Oberlin, the "State Organizer." He said that about fifty couples were now under fair organization, leaving about thirty-four unorganized. On motion of W. T. Mills a committee consisting of Brothers Dixon, Paden and Thrall was appointed to receive and audit Gaze's report. Just then Mr. T. P. Hopple offered a resolution containing instructions for the Executive Committee. Then a question arose as to what committee this was now in session and as the old Executive, old Central, and new Central Committees were all mixed up

After finishing his "dissection" of the Scott law he continued by giving a highly colored sketch of the beginnings of the Abolition movement. He was interrupted by a passing band against which, he said, he couldn't talk and sat down. Dr. Leonard remarked that it was the saloon keepers going out of town, (Continued on third page.)

It was a hard one to settle. A verbal report, without figures, given by Odell was adopted. After another mixture about the proper method of procedure they were declared adjourned by Odell.

The new Central Committee then temporarily organized by electing Geo. Thrall, of Columbus, Chairman, and J. B. Martin, of Cincinnati. The roll was called and a fairly full committee was found present. An expression was taken resulting in favor of raising the whole debt of the W. C. T. U. On this subject Lou Beauchamp made a ringing speech on the noble work of this organization. On motion of Wilber Colvin, the committee adjourned to meet again a half an hour after the adjournment of the convention this afternoon.

Thursday Morning's Session.

At nine o'clock this morning a devotional meeting was held in the Central M. E. church which was crowded, opening the second day's proceedings. The meeting was led by Rev. Isaac K. Funk, editor of the "Voice," New York, who made some appropriate remarks in taking charge, and was followed by Mr. Mills, the campaign orator, of Wooster, who made the principal address. Prayer was offered and a few minutes before ten o'clock, at which hour the convention was to meet, the assembly adjourned and the throng made an "advance in force" on the wigwag, which was soon crowded in every part. There were calls for delegates who had not reported to come to the front and make themselves known officially, as some delegations were not yet complete. There was a large amount of congratulatory hand-shaking while the band played its loudest strains and everybody seemed well satisfied with himself and the world generally. Lou Beauchamp and Jimmy Dunn indulging in a little love feast across the reporters' table.

O. M. Sellers pounded on the table and gave the nickel song-books another free ad. While the last delegates were filing into their seats the Big Six rendered some very pleasing selections. At 10:15 the Convention was called to order by Dr. Leonard, who announced that the choir would express the hopes of the party by singing "In the Sweet Bye and Bye."

Rev. Joseph Kyle, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, this city, was introduced and made the opening prayer, the convention rising. Rev. Mr. Kyle said:

O Lord, Our Heavenly Father: Our eyes look Thee; the hills from whence cometh our help. Our help is in Thee alone. We have Thy promise to guide and direct us; it is Thy Holy Word as our assurance and ask that Thy blessing may rest upon us as we are gathered here this day. Thou knowest the motives that bring us hither. Take from us every thought of self-advantage or of malice, if there be such thought, and give us the spirit of Christ. Grant us the courage of our convictions and carry us onward, wherever we go. Make bare Thy holy arm and give us to see our part in the salvation of the world. Thou seest the dark places of the world, full of the labitations of darkness; communities crushed under the demon of intemperance which retards Thy kingdom. No drunkard can enter that kingdom. Help us to lift the talons and talons of the grip of pit. Give us wisdom to do our part to overcome this great evil. Give wisdom to him who presides over this convention and may be led by Thee. Bless every member of the convention and every member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union and help them to go forward in the cause of the Lord whether men here uphold or oppose the cause. Help us that we may work only to Thy glory. We ask it in Christ's name. Amen.

After the reading of the minutes of yesterday's minutes by the Secretary, Mrs. Mary A. Woodbridge, the report of the Committee on Permanent Organization was called for. George P. Belcher, of Clermont, reported as follows: For Chairman, B. S. Higley, of Mahoning; for Secretary, Mrs. Mary A. Woodbridge, of Ravenna; for First Assistant Secretary, Z. C. Payne, of Franklin; for Second Assistant Secretary, E. D. Lewis, of Newton Falls. The report was approved by acclamation. The Chair then appointed Hon. A. R. Ludlow, George Thrall and Rev. J. Verity as a committee to escort the Chairman to his seat. His appearance was greeted with a flutter of applause, and he immediately began his little speech, speaking substantially as follows:

As I gaze on the upturned faces before me, I feel that I have been set back forty years. [Immense applause, and cries of "Make it one hundred," the speaker accepting the amendment.] If you will be patient and keep quiet I will promise not to talk long. I believe a good portion of our good sisters are here, and I am glad to see them. The so-called Voters' Union and of the good temperance people of the State of Ohio are mistaken in their estimate of the magnitude of the issue, or the gravity of the task before us. These good people seem to think we are to lift the talons and talons of the grip of pit. Give us wisdom to do our part to overcome this great evil. Give wisdom to him who presides over this convention and may be led by Thee. No Globe-Republic on the Fourth.

We follow a time-honored custom in omitting our issue on the Fourth of July—our great National holiday. Our entire force wish to celebrate the day properly and we shall take pleasure in affording the well-earned opportunity, especially as no dispatches will be sent to the press on that day.

As I gaze on the upturned faces before me, I feel that I have been set back forty years. [Immense applause, and cries of "Make it one hundred," the speaker accepting the amendment.] If you will be patient and keep quiet I will promise not to talk long. I believe a good portion of our good sisters are here, and I am glad to see them. The so-called Voters' Union and of the good temperance people of the State of Ohio are mistaken in their estimate of the magnitude of the issue, or the gravity of the task before us. These good people seem to think we are to lift the talons and talons of the grip of pit. Give us wisdom to do our part to overcome this great evil. Give wisdom to him who presides over this convention and may be led by Thee. Bless every member of the convention and every member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union and help them to go forward in the cause of the Lord whether men here uphold or oppose the cause. Help us that we may work only to Thy glory. We ask it in Christ's name. Amen.

After the reading of the minutes of yesterday's minutes by the Secretary, Mrs. Mary A. Woodbridge, the report of the Committee on Permanent Organization was called for. George P. Belcher, of Clermont, reported as follows: For Chairman, B. S. Higley, of Mahoning; for Secretary, Mrs. Mary A. Woodbridge, of Ravenna; for First Assistant Secretary, Z. C. Payne, of Franklin; for Second Assistant Secretary, E. D. Lewis, of Newton Falls. The report was approved by acclamation. The Chair then appointed Hon. A. R. Ludlow, George Thrall and Rev. J. Verity as a committee to escort the Chairman to his seat. His appearance was greeted with a flutter of applause, and he immediately began his little speech, speaking substantially as follows:
